ABOUT IFA

The International Fiscal Association is the only non-governmental and non-sectorial international organization dealing with fiscal matters. IFA is a neutral, independent, non-lobby organisation and as such the only global network of its kind. As a non-profit organisation, IFA provides a neutral and independent platform where representatives of all professions and interests can meet and discuss international tax issues at the highest level.

Its objects are the study and advancement of international and comparative law in regard to public finance, specifically international and comparative fiscal law and the financial and economic aspects of taxation.

IFA seeks to achieve these objects through its Annual Congresses and the scientific publications relating thereto as well as through scientific research.

Although the operations of IFA are essentially scientific in character, the subjects selected take account of current fiscal developments and changes in local legislation.

IFA has grown to a truly global association with more than 12,900 members from 114 countries. In 72 countries IFA members have established IFA Branches. For members in countries where an IFA Branch has not been yet established, IFA facilitates direct membership.

During the IFA 70th Annual Congress held in Madrid in September 2016, Fiscal Association in Bosnia and Herzegovina was officially recognized as 70th Branch of IFA.

INTRODUCTION

Recent global developments have raised important issues regarding tax policy and economic development. Rapid transformation of the global economy caused by globalization that forces tax competition, digitalization that challenges basic institutes of international tax law but on the another hand transforms not only businesses but also tax administrations, all followed by significant tax fraud and tax evasion, as well as unjustified profit shifting and base erosion, are only some of the currents trends in international taxation that worry not only developed countries, but those developing as well.

Even though the tax difficulties for developing countries are longstanding and increasingly well-known, these trends put additional and novel pressure on legal and tax systems of those countries. Bosnia and Herzegovina is not exception to that. A country with complex constitutional structure, multi-layer but not- generous-enough tax system and complicated and often ineffective legal framework, faces these trends with more concerns.

Engagement of developing countries in the international tax agenda is therefore important, in particular to ensure they receive appropriate support to address the specific challenges they face. Preparing this conference is one of the forms of that support. The conference aims to provide a comprehensive approach, including academic perspective and that of international organizations, as well as those of private and public sectors' representatives, where they all gather to discuss some of the, for developing countries, most relevant trends in international taxation.

ABOUT SARAJEVO

Sarajevo, the heart of the Balkans and the capital of Bosnia and Herzegovina is the city where East and West meet with its long and rich history of religious and cultural diversity. That is why it is sometimes called the “Jerusalem of Europe” or “Jerusalem of the Balkans”. It offers incredible authenticity in terms of culture and lifestyle.

The old center of Sarajevo, Bascarsija was built as a bustling bazaar during the Turkish Ottoman period. Today the narrow streets are still filled with tradesmen selling their wares and eateries serving up traditional dishes. Bascarsija is a great place to pick up a souvenir such as a copper coffee pot or to try Sarajevo’s legendary cevapi. Here you will also find several important religious buildings as well as the Sebilj, a fresh water fountain. It is said if you drink from the fountain you are sure to return to Sarajevo.

At every turn of the city there are impressive examples of architecture, each marking an important historical period. The Bascarsija highlights the Ottoman rule. The row of buildings running along the river highlight the best of the Austro-Hungarian period, the University of Sarajevo and The City Hall (the formal library which was rebuilt after the Sarajevo Siege) being particularly great examples. The Post-war period brought about modernisation to the city with the Avaz Twist Tower and the reconstructed Hotel Holiday dominating the skyline.

You certainly won’t go hungry in Sarajevo! Some traditional dishes to try include cevapi (look out for cevapdzinicas), burek & pastry pies (look out for buregdzinicas) and bosanski lonac (look out for ascinicas). All of these places serve quick and good value dishes. For something sweet, be sure to try baklava. It won’t take you long to see how important coffee is to Sarajevo and don’t leave without taking time to enjoy a Bosnian coffee.

SPONSORSHIP OPPORTUNITIES

The conference is organized with the kind support from the IFA Branch Development Fund, which enabled us to offer conference registration at a very competitive price and a waiver for IFA members.
