

Global IFA Travelling Lectureship Programme 2026

Topic: The International Dimension of Withholding Taxes (Tax Treaties and Beyond)

RABAT, MOROCCO
8 JULY, WEDNESDAY

International Fiscal Association

Withholding taxes (WHT) continue to play a pivotal role, particularly in relation to dividends, interests and royalties, both within domestic tax systems and in the context of tax treaties. Globalisation has (i) increased the volume and complexity of cross-border transactions; (ii) expanded the scope of domestic source taxation and WHT; (iii) drawn more attention to potential abuse; (iv) underscored the need for better tax treaty relief procedures. The 2026 TLP edition will examine practical WHT issues across jurisdictions, treaty interaction with domestic law and trends on how to shape WHT in the future.

Prof. Jérôme Monsenego

Lecturer

Jérôme Monsenego is Full Professor of International Tax Law at Stockholm University. He is also a Research Fellow at the Amsterdam Centre for Transfer Pricing and Income Allocation, and a Representative of the European Association of Tax Law Professors on the European Commission's Platform for Tax Good Governance. His research focuses on the European and international dimensions of the taxation of multinational enterprises. He will serve as General Reporter at the 2027 IFA Congress on the main subject concerning the taxation of services in the digital era. He previously served as Chairman of the Swedish branch of the IFA and has held visiting appointments at several foreign universities. He regularly advises national governments and international organisations on matters of international taxation.
